FARM AND GARDEN

CELLAR GARDENING.

"Dark Grown" Rhubarb a Promising and Little Known Industry.

A new departure with rhubarb, or at least one not generally known or practiced, is forcing it in a dark cellar. A writer who has been giving a detailed account of the process in The Rural New Yorker says: Do not be afraid to use a cellar with a cement or other hard floor, only supply loose earth enough to fill up all spaces underneath and between the roots. Being closely trimmed, the roots will not grow to any extent during the forcing season. Have no fear of using the house cellar, as no odor or dampness will arise, not even as much as from the potato bin. Never peel the dark grown rhubarb for table use, as it grows so crisp and tender that there is no necessity for it, and by so doing one loses much of the flavor and rare coloring of the sauce or other relishes.

A "CELLAR" FOR FORCING RHUBARB.

Set the roots closely together, leaving occasional narrow passageways for convienence in gathering. The roots may be dug out at any time and may be set in the cellar as late as the middle of February. They will stand from four to six weeks of heavy forcing after beginning to pull, depending on the vigor of the roots. When the stalks begin to grow weak or spindling, the roots should be removed from the cellar, piled up with sufficient covering to prevent too much freezing and thawing, and left until the season will permit of transplanting. They can then be divided with a spade into three or four parts and reset in rich ground four to five feet apart, each way, where, with thorough culture and plenty of manure, they should be left to make root, and they will be ready for forcing again in from two to three years. The rhubarb from these roots should not be gathered in summer. Merely pull out the seed stalks, and let all the tops go back on to the ground.

In regard to making a "cellar" for this purpose, the writer presents the accompanying illustration and explanation: The cellar is 12 by 50 feet and holds between 500 and 600 plants, set either side about five feet wide, with a passageway of about two feet in the center running the entire length. The ground was excavated about two feet in depth and boarded up about a foot above the ground. The roof is of sufficient pitch to shed water, giving a height to the cellar of three feet at sides and about seven feet in center. The roof is of boards running lengthwise and covered eight inches with manure. The entrance is at one end of the cellar through an outer door leading into an entry way about 6 by 12 feet for the storage of wood, etc. An inner door leads into the main cellar, entirely excluding light and frost. A small box stove is used for heating, setting back about one-third the distance through the cellar. The pipe extends back to a flue at the rear end. When sufficient manure is at hand to cover the cellar to a depth of 18 inches or two feet, little other heat will be required.

Early Work on Strawberries.

Where a mulch is not used on strawberries and especially if the land has not been properly treated the first year, it sometimes becomes necessary to work the ground in the spring in order to keep it free from weeds. In this case the Michigan station advises that the cultivation should be given as early as possible and should not be kept up after the plants are in blossom. Where the hill plants have not been mulched there will be even greater necessity for spring cultivation. Some growers dispense entirely with the mulch, but even though it is not used in the fall, the best fruit will only be secured when the plants are mulched, and if they are not mulched in the winter it should be applied in the spring before the fruit has set. It will not only keep the berries clean, but it will be of great value in conserving moisture if the season is dry. Many growers who mulch in the fall find it advisable to cultivate their plants, however, in the spring, and to do this the mulch must be taken off and again replaced after the cultivation has been given. By throwing four or five rows together it can be done with little labor.

A Homemade Level.

The cut from The Farm Journal shows an easy way to decide whether the bottom of a ditch is level or inclined without getting down into it with straightedge and spirit level.

Nail a long and short board at exactly right angles and have the edge of bottom board straight. Hang a plumb-bob on the perpendicular board and make a black line in the center at right angles to the bottom of the lower board. A level or an incline is then shown at a glance when the device is placed in the ditch.

HANDY IN DITCHING.

SHEEP AND WEEDS.

Utility of Vegetation Supposed to Be Valueless.

A weed is said to be any useless or injurious plant growing where it is not wanted. But there are some plants commonly thought to be weeds which may be of service under some circumstances, says Live Stock. This is the case as regards sheep pastures, in which there are some plants which may be of much use as tonics or alteratives, which the sheep will eat when instinct leads them to do it. One of these common weeds is the dandelion, the taraxicum of the botanist and the herbalist. The extract of the plant is a very useful bitter tonic, as well as a laxative and diuretic. It is not always eaten by sheep, but when instinct seems to impel them they take it freely. It has an excellent effect on the liver, thus purifying the blood, increasing the appetite and preventing bilious disorders. Parsley is another plant having similar effects and is more readily eaten by sheep than the preceding. Yarrow is another useful plant, which is purposely sown in laying down pastures for sheep in England. Indeed an English sheep pasture will be commonly found glistening with what we call weeds. The buttercup is especially abundant and is considered usefully medicinal. Wormwood is also so considered and as a bitter tonic is certainly useful. The narrow leaved plantain, the rib grass of the English shepherds, is commonly sown in pastures for sheep and is readily eaten. A species of grass known as sheep's fescue, a bluish green kind with wiry leaves and hardy and productive, is also much liked by sheep. It is certainly a weed otherwise, as it is too small to be mown. Most of these plants are nutritious as well as medicinal, and as sheep should have a permanent pasture, as they should also be a permanent part of the farm stock, it is advisable to stock the land with some of these weeds if not all of them. Plants generally grow most thriftily in conjunction. These weeds in a pasture may never decrease the amount of feed, while they may serve a useful purpose in preserving the health of the flock. Animals mostly, by instinct, make use of such plants as these. They do not feed on them, but take them as they seem to need them.

Pure Water For Sheep.

We must always think of water as being directly taken into the blood of an animal and whatever impurities it may contain go directly to the very source of life. Impurity of the blood thus occasioned must inevitably produce disease. At this time of the year surface water of all kinds, especially that which is stagnant, and even (but less so) that of streams, contains a vast proportion of impure matter, the drainage of the land which is covered by decomposing matter, dead insects with their eggs, and an uncountable quantity of various kinds of injurious germs. If one desires to test this matter, let him taste such water, and if the appearance of it alone does not disgust him the smell and taste of it will surely do so. Sheep should never be compelled to drink water that the shepherd would not use himself. And as we know that the use of bad water at this season is a frequent cause of fatal disease to persons, we must think of this as regards the sheep. Here is an instance: A friend living in Dakota lost many of his lambs by diseases which seemed to him to be produced by quite different causes. The symptoms seemed to vary so much that no one source of the disease could seem to be sufficient. But it was unquestionably the impure water supplied from a pond and a brook which fed it and which flowed from swampy ground, to which every symptom could be attributed. On advice the pond was fenced off, and water from a well was used. It was only a few days before every difficulty disappeared, and the flock recovered without any special treatment. We must think of the easy susceptibility of sheep through their very weak physical organization to diseases from which more robust animals would escape. We cannot treat sheep as we may safely treat pigs or even cattle, but we are always to give them the benefit of every possible care which we know we must exercise for ourselves.—American Sheep Breeder.

Digestion of Young Animals.

Everybody knows that animals make their most rapid growth while young, most of those which reach their growth in two or three years making more growth, and we may add at less cost, the first year than they ever can again. This is, we think, mainly because digestion the first year is better than it ever is likely to be thereafter. Much of this good digestion of young animals is, we think, caused by the labor they have to perform to slowly get their food during the first few weeks by drawing milk from the teat. It cannot be made to come rapidly, and the operation of sucking the teat starts the salivary glands in the mouth to working, so that by the time the milk does come it is well mixed with saliva and is of course easily digested. This is one reason why the butchers always prefer a calf that has suckled its dam rather than one that looks equally well that has been fed by hand. But it injures the milk giving capacity of the cow to let her calf suckle and will soon dry her off if long continued.—Boston Cultivator.

Heavy Sheep Not Wanted.

The day of the big, heavy sheep seems to have passed, and the premium that buyers pay on the lightweights makes it more profitable to feed young stock. Taking the receipts throughout the year, lambs are decidedly in the majority, while the heavy sheep are rapidly decreasing in numbers.—Drovers' Journal.

Frozen Meat.

New Zealand was one of the first countries to engage in the frozen meat trade. In 1882 40,000 sheep were shipped from that colony.

Vanity In Somaliland.

If you wish to make a Somali woman absolutely happy, you give her a looking glass. She will never before have seen one, but feminine instinct will teach her how to use it. Mrs. Alan Gardner, on one of her big game shooting expeditions in Somaliland, gave a native woman a looking glass for a Christmas present. She was so delighted with the first clear sight of her dusky countenance that she sat through two entire days and nights outside Mrs. Gardner's tent gazing with rapture at her own reflection.

On the morning of the third day the fame of the looking glass had spread through the country, and a row of 40 Somali women, collected from far and near, was engaged in taking an admiring turn at the magic mirror. When Mrs. Gardner came on the scene, she was greeted by 40 feminine Somali voices joined in chorus and each begging for a looking glass "all to herself." But, alas, for the limitations of a sporting outfit, the dusky belles were obliged to content themselves with the one communal mirror. And the woman with the looking glass remained for many weeks the most important person in Somaliland.—London Illustrated News.

Why He Liked Him.

The barber was perhaps a trifle more talkative than usual, and the customer was scarcely in a good humor. The portly gentleman had come straight from the dentist's. In blissful ignorance of this little fact the knight of the razor opened fire. He discussed the weather, foreign politics, the rival barber opposite, and was just explaining his views on the education question when the customer suddenly growled:

"Where's that assistant of yours, the one with the red hair?"

"He's left me, sir. We parted last week—on friendly terms, you know, and all that, but"—

"Pity!" growled the portly gentleman. "I liked that young fellow. There was something about his conversation I thoroughly enjoyed. He was one of the most sensible talkers I ever met, and"—

"You'll excuse me, sir, but there must be some mistake," gasped the astonished barber. "If you remember, poor Jim was deaf and dumb."

"Just so. Just so," was the curt rejoinder. "That's why I liked him."

And the barber went on shaving.—Pearson's Weekly.

Rewarded For His Honesty.

An English farm laborer recently went to a small store kept by an old woman and asked for "a pahnd o' bacon."

She produced the bacon and cut a piece off, but could not find the pound weight.

"Oh, never mind t' pahnd weight," said he. "Ma fist just weighs a pahnd. So put ther bacon i' t' scales."

The woman confidently placed the bacon into one side of the scales while the man put his fist into the other side, and, of course, took good care to have good weight.

While the woman was wrapping the bacon up the pound weight was found, and, on seeing it, the man said:

"Nah, you see if my fist don't just weigh a pahnd."

The pound weight was accordingly put into one scale and the man's fist into the other, this time only just to balance.

The old woman, on seeing this, said: "Wha, I niver seed aught so near afore! Here's a red herrin for thee honesty, ma lad!"—New York Tribune.

Had to Get Up.

Some years ago Dr. Oscar Blumenthal, the director of the Lessing theater in Berlin, had an unpleasant experience of the vigilance with which the authorities carry out their duties.

In his comedy, the "Orient Reise," one of the characters was afflicted with a mother-in-law of the most objectionable kind. This lady died and, according to the belief of her relatives, went to heaven. The prospect of a fresh acquaintance with his dreaded mother-in-law so terrified her son-in-law that he announced that, if this should be his fate, "when the resurrection comes I shan't get up."

This was sufficient for the authorities. Twenty-four hours after the production of the piece an ominous blue envelope arrived at the Lessing theater containing a peremptory order from the president of police that the lines in question should be immediately suppressed, "as being calculated to wound the religious feelings of the lieges."—Paris Herald.

Some Fifteens.

In The Courant of March 16, 1784, we printed the following queer story, which our readers will pardon us for repeating. Some of them may have forgotten it:

HEBRON, Feb. 15, 1784.—This day departed this life Mrs. Lydia Peters, the wife of Colonel John Peters and second daughter of Joseph Phelps, Esq. She was married at the age of 15 and lived wth her consort three times 15 years and had 15 living children, 13 now alive and the youngest 15 years old. She hath had three times 15 grandchildren. She was sick 15 months and died on the 15th day of the month, aged four times 15 years.

—Hartford Courant.

Pathetic and Practical.

Here is a "personal" that appeared not long ago in a London newspaper:

"Willie, return to your distracted wife and frantic children! Do you want to hear of your old mother's suicide? You will if you do not let us know where you are. Anyway, send back your father's colored meerschaum."

And yet we say the Briton has no very lively sense of humor.

One Qualification.

Mrs. Mann—You can't wash and iron nor make the fire (satirically)? Perhaps you might be able to sit in the parlor and read the morning paper after my husband has got through with it.

The Worklady—I think I could do that, mem, if the paper had stories in it.—Boston Transcript.

He Told the Lawyer.

Lawyer S. is well known for his uncomely habits. He cuts his hair about four times a year and the rest of the time looks decidedly ragged about the ears. He was making a witness describe a barn which figured in his last case.

"How long had the barn been built?"

"Oh, I don't know. About a year mebby. About nine months p'r'aps."

"But just how long? Tell the jury how long it had been built."

"Well, I don't know exactly. Quite a while."

"Now, Mr. B., you pass for an intelligent farmer, and yet you can't tell me how old this barn is, and you have lived on the next farm for ten years. Can you tell me how old your own barn is? Come now, tell us how old your own house is, if you think you know."

Quick as lightning the old farmer replied:

"You want to know how old my house is, do ye? Well, it's just about as old as you be and needs the roof seeing to about as bad."

In the roar that followed the witness stepped down, and Lawyer S. didn't call him back.—London Globe.

"'Ark, the 'Erald Angels Sing."

Two turns brought me from the crowded highway along which cab and omnibus were speeding toward London's center of attraction to the quiet street in which fire and food awaited me. As I made the second turn I saw, through the murk of a mid-December evening, three figures pressed close against the area railings—surely my own area railings. And through the murk came in a treble bawl the sound of "Peace on earth, good 'ill ter men."

The area door opened with a clatter.

"Now, then, be off with yer! I'd smack yer 'eds if I could get near yer. Makin that noise! Now, then!"

"Garn! Want yer airy window broke?" said the biggest of the trio, pulling himself up by the railings and resting his chin between the spikes.

As I entered at the gate they scurried away in fear and trembling, and cook, distracted, slammed the area door. A minute later a want of discord came down the street:

"'Ark, the 'crald angels sing."

Where Coleridge Was Wanting.

Coleridge has a lamentable want of voluntary power. If he is excited by a remark in company he will pour forth in an evening, without apparent effort, what would furnish matter for a hundred essays. But the moment that he is to write not from present impulse but from preordained deliberation his powers fail him, and I believe that there are times when he could not pen the commonest notes. He is one of those minds who, except in inspired moods, can do nothing, and his inspirations are all oral and not scriptural. And when he is inspired he surpasses, in my opinion, all that could be thought or imagined of a human being.—"Charles Lamb and the Lloyds," by E. V. Lucas.

The Bridge of Lions.

The largest bridge in existence is not, as one would imagine, the work of some famous English or French engineer. This bridge, comparatively little known, was constructed long ago, in China, in the reign of the Emperor Keing Long.

It is situated near to Sangang and the Yellow sea, and measures not less than eight miles and a half.

The Bridge of Lions, as it is called, is supported by 300 immense arches and its foundation is 21 meters under water. On each pile of this wonderful bridge is a marble statue of a lion, three times larger than life size. The coup d'œil of these 300 enormous lions, each one supporting an arch, is stupendous in its magnificance.

A New Commodity.

"John has 5 oranges, James gave him 11, and he gives Peter 7; how many has he left?"

Before this problem the class recoiled.

"Please, sir," said a young lad, "we always does our sums in apples."—London Tit-Bits.

Carried Down Stream.

When a man crossing some difficult place in his working career; spurring all his energies to accomplish some critical passage in his business journey, suddenly finds his health giving way and feels himself swept out of the saddle by the swift-running current of disease—then is the time when the marvelous rejuvenating properties of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prove an unfailing means of rescue and restoration.

It is a very simple though eminently scientific medicine. It is not a mere stimulant like so many malt extracts. It restores healthy power by reviving the innermost sources of vitality in the nutritive system. It enables the digestive and blood-making organism to manufacture good blood abundantly and rapidly, so that the immense waste of tissue and nerve fiber entailed by hard labor is offset by a speedy upbuilding of fresh energy and strength.

A prominent and venerable Illinois physician, D. W. Vowles, M. D., of Fowler, Adams Co., writing to Dr. Pierce, says: "I send herewith thirty-one (31) cents in stamps for 'The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser' in cloth binding. With this pittance for so valuable a work (truly a gift to the public), I must express my high appreciation of the vast amount of good that you have rendered the public. A correct measure of your usefulness never has been, and never will be estimated by the public; no, not even by the multitude of afflicted humanity that has been relieved and cured by your medicines. Wherever I go or have been in the United States, I find persons who have used, and are using Dr. Pierce's medicines with satisfaction, for all conditions for which they are recommended. Never has one spoken disparagingly of their action, and from having seen so often their good effects, I am also enthused with confidence in their action in cases and conditions for which they are recommended. It is not common for regular physicians to endorse and recommend proprietary medicines, but in this case I have no equivocation or hesitancy in so doing."

THE Sotoyome Sun wants the Odd Fellows to chose Healdsburg as the site for their Home. Very commendable in you, Brother Keene, in looking after the interests of your town, but Sonoma is going to get that Home sure if location, soil and climate count for anything with the committee chosen to select an eligible site. It were a waste of time and energy on your part to pit Healdsburg against Sonoma in this matter. Our people are all pulling together to secure the prize and when it comes to the natural advantages offered by our town for the Home there is no competitor in the field that can hold a candle to us. However, Brother Keene, we can congratulate you on your soon becoming a benedict. But as to the Odd Fellows Home—why you ain't in it.

IF there is any chance to boom business, boom it. Don't be a knocker. Don't pull a long face and get sour in the stomach. Hope a bit. Get a smile on your face. Hold up your head. Get hold with both hands. Then pull. Bury your hatchet. Drop your tomahawk. Hide your little hammer. Don't be a knocker. No man ever helped himself by knocking other people's interests down. No man ever gets rich by trying to make people believe he is the only man on earth. You can't climb the ladder of fame by stepping all over on other people's corns. All men are not alike. Once in a while you may find one much like another. But some are different. You're not the only one. There are others. There is no end of fun in minding your own business. It also makes other people like you.—Exchange.

SENATOR SIMS and Assemblyman Cowan have returned to their respective law offices in Santa Rosa after an absence of nearly three months in Sacramento. Messrs. Sims and Cowan very ably represented the people of Sonoma county in the Senate and Assembly and won recognition by their force of character, dignified manners and fine personal presence. Both were an honor to Sonoma county, and the only thing the INDEX-TRIBUNE has against them is that they were Democrats and wouldn't vote for Mr. Grant.

ASSEMBLYMAN LEBARON has returned to his home in Valley Ford from his legislative duties at Sacramento. Mr. LeBaron in the exciting contest for United States Senator was for U. S. Grant from start to finish and, assertions to the contrary, in voting for the San Diegan he represented his Republican constiuents faithfully and well and proved himself to be an honest and capable legislator.

SMITH'S new law doing away with the Great Register has been signed by Governor Gage. This law substitutes affidavits instead and are given at the time of registration by the voters. They are then bound together for use in precincts where the voters reside. There is no doubt that this will furnish the best means of identification of voters.

THE Farmers' Institute of this county will convene in Healdsburg on April 6th, and every farmer who can afford to attend should be present. Many questions affecting agriculture will come up for discussion.

GENERAL MACARTHUR has taken Malolos, the capital of the so-called Filipino Republic, and Aguinaldo, the wily nig, has taken to the jungles with his deluded followers.

Insurance rates in Healdsburg have been materially reduced by the Board of Fire Underwriters. The reduction was made owing to an improved fire department.

Discharged From Custody.

Celestino Guidotti and Louis Del Margo, the Glen Ellen gunfighters, who were arrested by Constable Ohm several weeks ago on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, and who have been confined in the County Jail awaiting trial, were brought before Judge Burnett Saturday for a hearing, but were dismissed owing to a lack of evidence to convict.

You Can't Dodge Them

Did you ever try to dodge the rain-drops? Did not succeed very well, did you? It's just as useless to try to escape from the germs of consumption. You can't do it. They are about us on every hand and we are constantly taking them into our lungs.

Then why don't we all have this disease? Simply because these germs cannot gain a foothold in a strong throat and lungs. It's when these are weak that the germs master.

The body must be well supplied with fat. The danger comes when the blood is poor and the body is thin. If your cough does not yield, and your throat and lungs feel raw and sore, you should not delay another day. Take of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites at once. It will heal the inflamed membranes and greatly strengthen them as well. The digestion becomes stronger, the appetite better and the weight increases. The whole body becomes well fortified and the germs of consumption cannot gain a foothold.

It's this nourishing, sustaining and strengthening power of SCOTT'S EMULSION that has made it of such value in all wasting and exhausting diseases.

SONOMA COUNTY HAPPENINGS.

Lewis Johnson, a merchant of Bloomfield, has failed with liabilities of $1000.

Ong Foon, the Chinese on trial for his life in the Superior Court at Santa Rosa, has been acquitted. He was accused of killing a fellow celestial in that city a number of years ago.

Last Saturday night the young son of President Foster of the California Northwestern Railway Company was taken suddenly ill with an absess in his head and it was found necessary to charter a special train to convey him from his home in San Rafael to San Francisco, where he was taken for medical aid.

Written for the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

A Tribute to Rudyard Kipling.

[Lines written upon reading of his recovery from his late serious illness.]

Thanks to the Almighty Father,
Who hath turned aside the sword;
Uplifted o'er the stricken one
And precious life and health restored.

From the "shadow of the valley,"
That encompassed us with fears;
Thou hast given back the loved one
By whose side have knelt ir tears.

Those dear ones, who in anguish,
Called on Thee his life to spare;
Sad were the hours and lonely
While each heart throb was a prayer.

Long life be thine, O Kipling!
And may thy sturdy pen
Send forth those stirring measures,
That shall thrill the hearts of men.

Adown the passing century
Thou hast flung a warning note;
That has sounded e'en from shore to shore
And unto lands remote.

But we know genius never dies,
'Tis of immortal birth;
And of thy glowing words of truth,
Who can estimate the worth?

For when thou life's last debt dost pay,
And thy cold lips are dumb;
Thy works like trumpets still shall sound
Through centuries to come.

EARL ALLAN.

To Make a Bonnet.

Two mammoth knots of violets,
And leaves of clear bright green;
A cluster of red roses
With a bit of lace between.
Add four or five "paste" buckles,
A waving big aigrette,
A profusion of broad feathers,
And a plat of mignonette;
A tiny band of velvet
With a flare of ribbon on it,
This great mass of what and which
Will make an Easter bonnet.

Future of the Bicycle.

It is agreed by all bicycle manufacturers that the 1899 models represent the perfect wheel, and that in future the silent steed will be practically what it is to-day. Improvement seems to be impossible, as the bicycle accomplishes everything that is required of it. Precisely the same thing is true of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It represents the limit of science in overcoming disease, and it is impossible to make a better medicine for the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. A few doses of the bitters will start weak, nervous and bloodless people on the road to strength. A regular course of treatment will bring back the pink to the cheeks and sparkle to the eye. Sleep will come naturally, and it will be refreshing and healthful. Dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation will be completely banished, and the blessings of true health bestowed. Never take a substitute for this perfect remedy.

Constable Thos. B. Wilson brought a young from Cloverdale to be examined by the lunacy commissioners in Santa Rosa. The man was committed to the State hospital at Ukiah.

CONSTABLE OHM'S. EXCITING CHASE.

Brings the "Terrible Swede" to Bay With a Winchester.

Wanted for Attempting to Kill Jim McGuffin.

James McGuffin, a blockmaker employed in Schocken's quarries on the hill north of town, swore out a warrant in Judge Cheney's Court last Sunday for the arrest of Adolph Von Lindelblom, alias "The Terrible Swede." McGuffin alleges that Von Lindelblom laid siege to his cabin on Sunday and fired two shots at him with a shot gun. The shots were fired through the door of the cabin, making a hole in the same as large as a man's fist.

The warrant for the Swede's arrest was placed in Constable Ohm's hands Monday morning and he repaired to his cabin in the hills on the Malini place to serve the same and arrest his man. Von Lindelblom upon seeing the officer approach, seized his shot gun and took to the mountains with the officer in hot pursuit. By dodging and hiding in the brush the fugitive managed to elude the officer for several hours. He was seen a number of times but always beyond pistol shot.

Officer Ohm, realizing that his man could not be brought to bay with a six-shooter, repaired to a ranch near by and borrowed a Winchester rifle and again took up the chase. Late in the afternoon he succeeded in running the Swede out of cover, and at a distance of several hundred yards commanded him to surrender. He paid no heed to the demand, and the officer then fired several shots over the fleeing man's head in order to frighten him. Seeing the officer was heeled with a rifle Von Lindelblom threw up his hands and surrendered.

Officer Ohm arrived in town with his prisoner between six and seven o'clock and placed him in the lock-up. Pending his examination before Judge Cheney, which was set for yesterday, Von Lindelblom was taken to Santa Rosa and placed in the County Jail.

This is the second time there has been trouble at McGuffin's cabin. A number of years ago he was assaulted by Peterson, a blockmaker, and in the combat that ensued McGuffin beat his assailant over the head with a pick handle and left him for dead on the threshold of his door. He then came to town and gave himself up. Although he received a terrible beating, McGuffin's assailant eventually recovered but has been "a little off" ever since.

Held to Answer to a Charge of Attempt to Murder.

Von Lindelblom had his examination at 3:30 yesterday afternoon before Judge Cheney, who held him to answer to a charge of attempted murder with bail fixed at $1,000. Being unable to secure bondsmen the accused was taken to Santa Rosa and lodged in jail.

Congregational Church.

At a special meeting of the Congregational Church the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the Congregational Church of Sonoma hereby expresses its gratitude to members and friends who have subscribed to repairs and improvements that have lately been made on the church property, also, to those who otherwise gave their time and assistance to the work; and especially to Mr. W. H. Hyde under whose generous superintendence the labor has been done,

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be placed upon the minutes of the church; also that a copy be sent to each of the papers for publication.

Land Transfer.

John T. and Wm. Jones have sold their mountain ranch located three or four miles east of town to Mrs. R. J. Snyder. The ranch consists of 340 acres of mountain and pasture land and an orchard of choice fruit trees.

PERILS OF THE RAILWAY.

Donahue Train Runs Over a Horse and is Nearly Derailed.

The north bound train of the California Northwestern Railway Company while crossing a trestle near the Home for Feeble-Minded, on Sunday evening last, ran over a horse and came very near being derailed. The animal, which belonged to A. R. Harrison, had strayed away from its owner and in attempting to cross the railway track became wedged in between the timbers of the trestle and was unable to extricate itself. There is a sharp curve in the road at that point and the unfortunate equine was not discovered by engineer Lewis in time to stop the engine and the entire train passed over the animal, literally grinding it to pieces. Sam Lewis, who is one of the most careful engineers in the employ of the California Northwestern, has been very fortunate in his daily runs between Glen Ellen and Ignacio, the past twenty years. During that period he has met with fewer mishaps than any engineer on the coast who has handled an iron horse for a similar period and for an equal run of miles.

The Bus Went Over the Bridge.

Fred. Joy, more familiarly known as "Capt," the driver of the stage between this place and El Verano station, met with an accident last Sunday and had a narrow escape from being seriously injured. Just before reaching the small bridge near the old Star Saloon building the horses began to kick and became unmanageable and the big bus, which fortunately contained no passengers, ran off the bridge and landed upside down at bottom of the creek. Mr. Joy was thrown from his seat, but luckily landed clear of the bus, falling a distance of about ten feet. One of his shoulders was badly wrenched and he received several bruises and contusions about the head. The horses did not go over with the bus and driver but remained upon the bridge owing to the harness giving way. The damage to the vehicle was slight.

Meeting of Odd Fellows Home Committee.

The committee appointed to devise ways and means of securing the Odd Fellows Home meet again at Union Hall this afternoon to make arrangements for meeting the Odd Fellows Committee, which will visit Sonoma in a week or so. Messrs. Robt. Hall, H. H. Davis, Fred'k T. Duhring, A. E. Osborne, W. S. Miller, Otto Muser, H. E. Boyes, Robt. Howe, F. Quien and Jas. McMacken, our local committeemen, are taking a great deal of interest in the matter and if the Home does not come here it will be no fault of theirs.

Trout Season Opens To-Day.

The open season for trout commences to-day and local anglers are anticipating fine sport in landing the speckled beauties. The rain of last week converted all the small mountain streams into raging torrents and large numbers of trout made their way up stream to their spawning grounds. At the present time there is too much water in the streams for first-class sport, but for all that, some fine catches will be made to-day in Sonoma Creek and its small tributaries.

Visiting the Schools.

Minnie Coulter, Superintendent of Schools, was in town several days this week. During her stay here she visited the Glen Ellen, Flowery, Dunbar and Sonoma public schools, and expressed herself as well pleased with both teachers and scholars. Miss Coulter returned to Santa Rosa yesterday, but will return to Sonoma in a short time when she will visit the other schools in the vicinity of this place.

A Social Gathering.

The social at the Congregational Church Tuesday evening was a very enjoyable affair. A large contingent of both old and young people gathered together in the lecture room about 8 o'clock and a very nice time was had. A short literary and musical programme was rendered and the usual games and social converse were indulged in. About midnight refreshments were served after which all said adieu and departed for their respective homes well pleased with their evening's amusement.

The High School.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Sonoma Valley High School Trustees will be held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The Trustees are as follows: Hon. Robt. Howe, Fred'k T. Duhring, Geo. O. Campbell, F. Quien, J. G. Cromwell, T. S. Glaister, Wm. H. Hilton, W. E. Hunt and R. J. Dowdall.

EASTER SERVICES.

Special Music and Appropriate Sermons.

Churches to be Profusely Decorated With Flowers.

The churches of Sonoma will be elaborately decorated for the services which will be held to-morrow in observance of the Easter festival. The music will be a special feature of the occasion in all the churches.

In the Congregational Church services will be held at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M. The pastor, Rev. C. D. Milliken, will choose for the subject of his sermon "Rolling Away the Stone." The subject for the evening will be "Two Modern Elements of the Resurrection Life." An original composition by Mrs. F. T. Duhring will be rendered in the morning by Miss Claire Hope, who has also composed an Easter song which will be sung by a quartette. The church will be profusely decorated with flowers.

High mass will be celebrated in St. Francis' Church by Rev. Father Quill, followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. A special choir, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Walliser as organist, will render the singing. The choir will be composed of Mrs. Lulu de Emparan, Miss Leona Schiller, Miss Haraszthy and Senor Escagna. The altar will be decorated with flowers.

At the Methodist Church Easter will be observed with special singing by the choir. Rev. E. E. Thompson, the pastor will preach two appropriate sermons, one in the morning and the other in the evening. The Sunday school children will also have a programme and the church will be decorated with choice cut flowers and evergreens.

CARRIED THE MAIL ON A MULE.

An Episode of Forty-Four Years Ago.

J. B. Morris of Sonoma, who has been in Santa Rosa for the past two weeks as a juror in the Ong Foon trial, says the Press-Democrat, related an interesting incident concerning the early history of Santa Rosa and the county to a number of friends in the corridors of the Grand Hotel the other evening. He recalled how he carried the United States mail to this city in 1855 from Sonoma on a mule. It seems the regular mail carrier was taken sick when he reached Mr. Morris' home, and asked him to complete the trip for him to Santa Rosa. Boyish-like, Mr. Morris says he consented and got on the mule and started for Santa Rosa. The country was new to him; in fact the only road he had to travel was nothing but an unbeaten trail. He managed to cover the journey successfully and was well pleased when the Colgan hotel on the corner of First and Main streets was reached. Nearly opposite the hotel was the postoffice. A little further down the street was the Sonoma house, another little hostelry. Bill Smith's blacksmith shop and several other small buildings completed the Santa Rosa of that day.

Broke a Wheel.

The regular north bound passenger and express train of the California Northwestern Railway Company arrived in town Thursday an hour-and-a-half behind schedule time. The delay was caused by the breaking of one of the forward wheels of the engine truck. The mishap occurred at Sears' Point and the train made its way into the station and on to Glen Ellen on three wheels as it were, at a snail's pace.

An extra engine was sent up from Tiburon and the afternoon south bound freight and passenger train passed through town on regular time.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE, Proprietor.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 1899.

Notice of Business Change.

The old saying that "the unlooked-for always happens" may be true in the present instance. The Sonoma News is no more! Having sold the paper and its good will to Mr. Granice, the business and subscription books pass into his hands. Those who are in arrears for their paper will please pay Mr. Granice and those who have paid in advance will receive the INDEX-TRIBUNE to full extent of their subscriptions.

There are three reasons I might give for making this change. It is well known that I did not buy the News with the intention of running it myself. A person usually sells a commercial commodity when the price asked is accepted. The third reason is the more potent one—our patronizing territory is too limited to properly support two weekly newspapers.

But we do need and must have for the weal of the commonwealth one good, wide-awake paper, which shall be alive to the best interests of our people, and such a paper Mr. Granice will be able to furnish us providing he has the good will and support his paper merits. So we sincerely hope all our subscribers and patrons will lend a hand.

With a thank you to our friends and wishes for the success of the INDEX-TRIBUNE we break our quill.

E. E. THOMPSON.

Sonoma Jan. 3, 1899.

What Shall We Do.

A serious and dangerous disease prevails in this country, dangerous because so deceptive. It comes on so slowly yet surely that it is often firmly seated before we are aware of it.

The name of this disease which may be divided into three distinct stages is, First, Kidney trouble, indicated by pain in the back, rheumatism, lumbago, frequent desire to urinate, often with a burning sensation, the flow of urine being copious or scant with strong odor.

If allowed to advance, this reaches the Second stage, or Bladder trouble, with heavy pain in the abdomen low down between the navel and the water passage, increasing desire to urinate, with scalding sensation in passing, small quantities being passed with difficulty, sometimes necessary to draw it with instruments. If uric acid or gravel has formed, it will prove dangerous if neglected.

The Third stage is Bright's disease.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Kilmer, the great kidney and bladder specialist, has discovered a remedy famous for its marvelous cures of the most distressing cases and know as Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

It is sold by all druggists.

As a proof of the wonderful virtues of this great discovery, Swamp-Root, a sample bottle and book of valuable information will be sent absolutely free by mail on application to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, New York. When writing kindly mention that your read this liberal offer in the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

To-Night and To-Morrow Night.

And each day and night during this week you can get at any druggist's Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, acknowledged to be the most successful remedy ever sold for Coughs, Croup, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption. Get a bottle to-day and keep it always in the house, so you can check your cold at once. Price 25c. and 50c. Sample bottle free.

TICKS AND TEXAS FEVER.

Views of Dr. Salmon of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

Although the dipping of cattle from the infected district will remove the danger of contagion from them, and, although the inoculation of young animals destined for the infected district will protect them from the fatal effects of contagion, writes Dr. Salmon, chief of the government bureau of animal industry, the stockmen of the greater part of that district have something more to look forward to and may indulge the hope that with time and proper efforts their section may be entirely relieved of the infection. People now living have seen the infection extend itself for many miles, and the probability is that little if any of our territory contained the contagion at the time the continent was first settled by Europeans.

We have seen that two parasites are necessary for the production of Texas fever under natural conditions. As the tick has been able to accustom itself to greater cold, it has gradually extended its habitat to higher latitudes and greater altitudes, and in doing so has carried with it the microscopic protozoa which constitute the contagion.

The fact that the fever tick and the protozoa infest South American cattle and that they exist over a wide extent of the African continent and also in Australia would seem to indicate that both parasites had originally been brought to America with the settlers' cattle. It now remains to determine whether the protozoa of this disease exist anywhere and multiply otherwise than within the ticks and in the blood of cattle. If these minute organisms are absolutely dependent upon the ticks for their existence, we would destroy them by eradicating the ticks, but if the protozoa may live an independent life in the more or less stagnant waters or marshes of the south Atlantic and gulf coasts it would be hopeless to attempt to annihilate them entirely.

Without the ticks, however, the protozoa would be of simply local interest. Even if the native cattle became infected by drinking contaminated water they could not spread the disease, and no cattle would suffer except those raised in or taken into the comparatively small area in which these special conditions of high temperature and slow running or stagnant water exist. We may admit therefore, provisionally at least, that the destruction and extirpation of the fever tick means the eradication of the Texas fever contagion in the greater part, if not all, of the territory of our southern states.

In at least half a dozen counties in Virginia, where the fence laws prohibit the running at large of cattle, the ticks have soon disappeared, and these counties have been placed above the quarantine line without any loss having since occurred through contagion spread by the cattle from those sections. From a number of farms, and particularly the farm of the Georgia experiment station, the ticks have been eradicated by picking them off the cattle by hand and destroying them as fast as they became large enough to see. Two years have been sufficient to accomplish this result. Now the interesting fact has been demonstrated that northern cattle taken to such farms no longer contract Texas fever. This strengthens our theory that in much of the southern territory at least the protozoa are not obtained by the cattle from the soils or waters, but that they must be inoculated by the ticks.

Good Rams.

By getting really good rams it is astonishing how quickly the quality of a flock can be improved. We are not likely to see the high prices for wool that once prevailed; therefore the more need to give special attention to the mutton qualities of the sire. A heavy fleece is all right if it goes with the other.

Foot Rot.

Foot rot in a flock immediately convicts the shepherd of neglect and inflicts the fine for this delinquency. We cannot escape this penalty for this neglect.

Sheep's Hoofs.

See to the sheep's feet and clip the overgrown hoofs. The sole is to be trimmed smoothly to avoid the irritating effect of sand or gravel on it.
